Assisting Students in Distress

Always approach each interaction with authenticity and non-judgement. See resources on reverse side for student referrals. Call 911 if a student poses an immediate danger to themselves or others.

Potential Action Steps

Manageable Stress
- Student has a reasonable amount of stress and reports engaging in effective self-care strategies.

  "I've been pretty stressed, but finding time to exercise has made things feel more manageable."

- Foster a supportive relationship with student. Ask about their school-life balance & self-care practices. Put resources in your syllabi.

  "How have you been feeling lately?" or "How are you carving out time to care for yourself?"

- Provide general information about wellness resources such as Hokie Wellness workshops, support groups, or health coaching through TimelyCare.

Mild Distress
- Student shows early signs of poor performance, inconsistent attendance to class/meetings, some difficulty managing tasks.

  "I'm just feeling a bit overwhelmed right now." or "I'm juggling a lot on my plate."

  "That sounds difficult. What are some things you can do in the coming days to feel a sense of balance?"

- Connect student to support groups & workshops that help build stress management skills through Hokie Wellness, Cook Counseling, or TimelyCare.

Moderate Distress
- Student shows signs such as continuous inability to complete tasks, inappropriate emotional responses, or poor communication.

  "I just can't do this. Could I have another extension?" or "I'm just struggling to get it together."

- Ask clarifying questions. Use active listening skills to identify stressors and barriers. Affirm student's strengths. Identify a realistic step together. Follow up.

  "I can see how hard you've been trying to manage it all." or "You said you've been struggling lately, tell me more about what's been going on. I want to help."

- Refer student to Cook Counseling, Dean of Students, or TimelyCare for 1:1 support. Additionally, a campus support group may be appropriate.

Acute Distress
- Student shows signs of complete withdrawal or hopelessness. Student expresses direct threat to themselves.

  "I don't want to be here anymore, it's not worth it." or "Everyone would be better off without me."

- Calmly voice your care and concern. Know your limits. Do not guarantee confidentiality. Remain with them until they're connected to help.

  "I hear that you're hurting right now & I care about you. Getting help can feel scary; could we call Cook together to talk to someone?"

- Call Cook with student & communicate acute concerns. If student refuses and/or you are unsure of next steps, you can call Dean of Students to consult.

  "Call Cook with student & communicate acute concerns. If student refuses and/or you are unsure of next steps, you can call Dean of Students to consult."
